

Case study- Patient Advocate Stories

Hilary Stobart
Patient advocate, use MY data

I was successfully treated for breast cancer in 2009. I knew the type of treatment that I had depended so much on the data of patients who went before me.

By 2009 it was known that I didn't need chemotherapy for my type of breast cancer; fifteen years earlier I would have been given it anyway.

I am so grateful for other people's data and so I am so pleased to know that my own data is stored in cancer registries to help others.

We are building an online library, where the patient voice is heard direct, talking about the rewards of using their data
